PRESENT STATUS OF THE HORSE BREEDING INDUSTRY IN PENNSYLVANIA.

The report of the United States Department of Agriculture for the year 1907 shows the total number of horses on the farms in Pennsylvania January 1st, 1908, to be 607,000, having an average valuation of $114.00 or a total of $69,198,000.* Pennsylvania's rating on this basis is only twelfth among the other states of the Union, notwithstanding the fact that there is probably but one state which uses more horses in the course of the year.

It is interesting to note the source of Pennsylvania's supply of horses. The majority of all the draft horses used in the cities of this state come from the Corn Belt States, chiefly Iowa; many of the dealers which enjoy the best trade buy all their harness and saddle horses in Kentucky; there is a most active trade in Virginia bred horses from weanlings up, in the central portion of Pennsylvania; while in some districts there are still regular shipments made of range bred colts. The city mules come largely from Kentucky and Tennessee, the mine mules from Missouri. Thus is shown, in striking manner, the marked lack of balance between production and consumption of market horses in this State. The dealers' statements in explanation of this condition of affairs are uniformly to the effect that the class of horses which they require are not produced on the farms of Pennsylvania, although they admit that there is no good reason why more of them should not be.

In a recent issue of a leading livestock journal of this country an editorial was devoted to this topic, the substance of which was, that in view of the medium price of land and the cost of grain in the East compared to the margin allowed by the buyer for horses purchased in the West to be sold in the East, horse breeding would appear "to be one of the most profitable lines of livestock husbandry which might be followed" by Pennsylvania farmers. The advantage of more economic production possessed by the western breeder, is to a large extent offset by the low price for which he must sell to the shipper, or the cost of marketing, which must be deducted from his profits in case he sells direct to the consumer. The eastern farmer, on the other hand, has not the means of finishing his horses for market at as low a cost, but his markets are more accessible and but a small allowance is necessary for the cost of placing them there.

*In addition there are, on farms, 41,000 mules, having an average value of $124.00 and a total value of $5,084,000.

MARKET REPORTS.

A review of the market reports from the great horse centres for the past few years shows the price for choice horses of a definite type to have been remarkably firm, the demand usually in excess of the supply while, as a rule, the common, unclassified horses have sold at what would be a loss to the producer.

Some of the largest dealers in this state have said that it is impossible to secure anything like an adequate supply of horses of the quality, type and breeding which they require without going to other states, although they would prefer to patronize the home breeders, and are interested in improving the class and number of horses produced here. Increased activity in the horse breeding industry in this state should not only improve and increase the better sort and the number of horses, but it would be found to be a source of profit to those engaged in it.

CAUSES FOR THE PRESENT CONDITION.

Three things may be charged as responsible for the lack of progress made in the horse breeding industry in Pennsylvania in recent years. The first, is an evident need of a clearer conception of what constitutes a good, salable, market horse. The second, is an absence of good blood which might be expected to bring about improvement, or the indiscriminate use of what little good blood is already available. The last, and perhaps the most serious, condition responsible for the present state of affairs is the persistence of the breeders in patronizing the cheap, inferior sires and their failure to manifest an encouraging disposition to use well bred horses of desirable type at the higher fee which their greater cost makes necessary.

INFLUENCE OF SHOW RING COMPETITION.

Much may be done to correct ideals and spread general information concerning the market classes of horses by the County Fair Associations. Emphasis should be placed on the importance of show ring awards as educational factors. Successful competition in the show ring should not be regarded simply as a means of distributing ribbons or cash prizes, but should be looked upon as setting forth and illustrating the most desirable types, for the instruction and benefit of the breeders concerned. A comprehensive classification of entries, followed by the consistent and accurate placing of awards, based upon such classification, will do much to raise the standard of the livestock produced in a community. Higher ideals and a more liberal view of the breeding business are necessary for the encouragement of those who would provide stallions of approved type and breeding, and in such numbers as are needed in this State.

IMPROVEMENT OF MARES.

Some men have objected that a large outlay for superior stallions for use in this State will be unprofitable until we have on our farms, a class of mares better adapted to give the most satisfactory results from mating with such horses. On the other hand, it is to be said that, however much we appreciate the importance of the dam in determining improvement, we must admit that improvement in a far greater number of individuals will follow the use of a superior sire than when the dams only are of improved character. Grading up is the best means of improving our farm mares and the most important factor in the grading up process is the pure-bred stallion of superior type, conformation and breeding. It is for this reason that the first step to encourage horse breeding in Pennsylvania has been directed to the stallion, by regulating the services to be offered to the breeding public.

THE FRENCH SYSTEM.

We are justly proud of the achievements of our American horse breeders, but it must be admitted that a more effective system of improvement in the production of horses has been for sometime in operation in France, Great Britain, Germany, Denmark, Italy, Hungary, Russia and Belgium. In all of these countries the work is more or less under Government control or patronage and the methods involved pertain, first of all, to the regulation of stallion service. This system is most complete and effective in France, where all horse breeding is under the supervision of a public officer and all horses whose services are offered to the public have passed a system of government inspection. Stallions are first certified free from roaring and periodic ophthalmia, or moon blindness, the two conditions that wholly disqualify breeding horses in France. After being certified sound by the veterinarian, the branded star on the neck being the stamp of such certification, they are turned over to the inspectors who classify them according to merit. A large number of the stallions used for breeding purposes in France are in the government stud. Of those owned by private individuals three classes are made. The first class is designated "Approved" and represents those of most superior type and breeding the patronage of which is especially commended. The owners of these stallions are paid an annual subsidy by the government on condition that the stud fee shall be so regulated as to make the horse available to most breeders. The second class consists of those stallions which are not quite up to the standard of approval, but which are nevertheless useful breeding horses. These receive no subsidies but have the authority of the government to stand for public service and are therefore termed "Authorized." In the third class are those horses of no especial merit which are allowed to remain in the breeding ranks on account of the fact that they have been certified to be sound. This class is therefore designated "Certified." Any stallion which is neither owned by the government, nor inspected by the government officials and classified in one of these groups, that is stood for public service in France is so used surreptitiously.

INAUGURATION OF A SYSTEM IN THIS COUNTRY.

The effort to systematically improve the horse breeding industry under public direction may be said to have been inaugurated in this country by the United States Department of Agriculture when, in 1904, they secured special appropriations to be devoted to experimental work along this line. Subsequently, the matter has been taken up by several of the states, whose first step has been the most ready and logical means of effecting improvement, namely, the regulation of stallion service. Laws are now in force in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Utah, Iowa, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, as well as in some of the provinces of Canada and Australia, which have as their object the protection of the owners of mares against misrepresented, common bred, unsound sires, whose influence would be detrimental to the stock of the country, and a loss to the breeders.

THE PENNSYLVANIA LAW PROPOSED BY PROMINENT BREEDERS.

The law enacted by the last Pennsylvania legislature, a copy of which is appended, is similar in its essential features to those of most of the states referred to, and is to some extent an adaptation of the system that has prevailed in France with obviously good results for over a century. This law was proposed by some of the most prominent breeders of Pennsylvania who recognized the need for such a measure, and its final enactment was the result of the united efforts of the breeders in the state through their organization, the Pennsylvania Livestock Breeders Association. The president of this association was one of the strongest advocates of the proposed bill. These breeders were controlled wholly by public spirited motives, seeking only to encourage and promote the horse breeding industry of the State.

ATTEMPT TO REACH ALL STALLION OWNERS.

The first step necessary in the enforcement of a law of this kind is to reach every stallion owner in the state with a notification of its existence and his obligations to it. To this end, a mailing list was compiled from the best sources available. Circular letters were then addressed to each person whose name had been secured, enclosing a blank form with the request that there be reported thereon the names and addresses of all stallion owners in the state known to the party addressed, and to each person so reported a circular letter was sent advising him of the existence and the requirements of the law, together with a copy of the law itself, a circular of information pertaining thereto and blank forms for application, for a veterinarian's certificate of soundness or for the owner's affidavit of soundness.

COMMON ERRORS IN THE INTERPRETATION OF THE LAW.

The correspondence which accompanied many of the first applications received, indicated that the owners did not understand just what was required of them before they could secure a state license certificate for their horses. It may, therefore, be well to here review, somewhat in detail, the requirements for the state enrollment and licensing of stallions together with some of the most common errors made. By this act of the legislature, which was approved by the Governor April 25th, 1907, the stallion owner is required to do more than simply record his horse with the prothonotary of his county, as has been the case heretofore. Since January 1st, 1908, it has been required by law that every stallion for whose services a fee is asked be enrolled with the State Livestock Sanitary Board, and receive a license certificate. It is not a mere matter of registration for which simple application is necessary. There are certain conditions prescribed by law, and failure to meet these conditions may make it impossible, under the law, to grant a license. Furthermore, these requirements, being fixed by law, must be strictly adhered to and there can be no exceptions made of individual cases.

REQUIREMENTS FOR LICENSE.

The first thing necessary in making application for a state license is to apply for suitable application blanks. In filling out these blanks one has to give a detailed description of the stallion as to age, weight, height, color and markings. This is necessary for the purpose of identification and, also, for the reason that it is incorporated in the license certificate and any omission will appear there. The next essential is the submission of the original pedigree registry certificate. The license certificate which is issued indicates whether a horse is pure bred, grade or cross bred and the wording of these certificates is established by the law. The pure bred certificate states that the horse is registered with an association recognized by the United States Department of Agriculture, therefore the certificate of such an association is the only authority upon which a pure bred license can be issued. Furthermore, it is necessary to see the certificate itself in order to establish the fact that the horse, for which application is made, is identical with the horse whose registration is reported. It is very important to have all transfers of ownership properly shown, so that the present ownership of the horse may be confirmed. Unauthoritative tabulated pedigrees and advertising matter cannot be accepted for the issuance of a pure bred certificate. Any certificate or statement of pedigree must be properly authorized by the officers of the association, which itself is authorized by the United States Department of Agriculture. The term grade, as used in connection with these certificates, has a very broad meaning and includes all animals not fulfilling the requirements just set forth as necessary for a pure bred certificate, with the exception of a small group whose sires and dams are both pure bred and properly registered but in associations of different breeds. To these are issued the third form of certificate, cross-bred. Unfortunately, there can be no discrimination, so far as the wording of the grade certificate is concerned, between that issued to a horse whose eligibility to registration is denied only on account of an untraced third or fourth dam and the horse of the most mixed and nondescript breeding. The clause "not of pure breeding," which appears in the grade certificate should, therefore be interpreted "not registered." The third requirement is a fee of $2.00 which is necessary in all cases, whether an animal is pure bred or not. This money is immediately turned over to the State Treasurer and no license certificate can be issued until there has been a $2.00 remittance to cover it. Finally, some certificate of soundness is demanded and this may be the sworn certificate of a qualified veterinarian, licensed to practice in Pennsylvania, or the owner himself may make affidavit, that, after diligent inquiry, he believes his horse to be free from hereditary, contagious, or transmissible unsoundness and disease, the presence of which will disqualify a horse for breeding purposes.

LAW FRAMED TO MEET PRESENT CONDITIONS.

There seems to be no question that the intent of the law is commendable, although some criticisms are made of the means by which the desired end is attained. It should be borne in mind, by those disposed to doubt the wisdom of the parties responsible for the form of the present Pennsylvania law that, at best, it is a somewhat radical measure and its sudden enforcement will bring to an abrupt ending the practices of certain men who have suffered no interference for years and even for generations. The enforcement of laws is usually intended to drive rather than to lead, yet there is much of an educational nature about the successful administration of the law in question. It was, therefore, necessary that the act be originally framed in such a way as to make its immediate operation possible, with beneficial results, at the same time avoiding such opposition as might in the first place prevent it ever becoming a law or make impossible its enforcement, in case it passed the legislature. Certain provisions which at first would be out of the question or at least unadvisable may be subsequently incorporated in the law.

GRADE STALLIONS.

The two points most commonly assailed are those pertaining to the licensing of other than pure bred stallions and the issuing of a license on the basis of the owner's affidavit of soundness. In defence of the first, it may be said that it would be practically impossible to retire from service at this time all but pure bred stallions in the State of Pennsylvania. While the grade sire is, as a rule an uncertain proposition and his patronage to be discouraged, there are undoubtedly many useful sires now in service for which a pure bred license certificate could not be secured. What the law does do in these cases is to prevent misrepresentation in the matter of a horse's breeding, thereby creating a sentiment in favor of the pure bred horse which may eventually result in his being the only one authorized by the State Department of Agriculture.

OWNER'S AFFIDAVIT.

It is necessary to accept the owner's affidavit of soundness on account of the fact that in some counties there are no qualified veterinarians, and to demand a veterinarian's certificate of soundness from owners in these counties would be to impose the next thing to an impossibility upon them. No doubt this privilege is sometimes taken advantage of, but those cases will usually be found to work themselves out to a satisfactory adjustment. The time will probably come, as it has already in Wisconsin and Minnesota, when the owner's affidavit will no longer be accepted.

RESULTS HOPED FOR.

Following are some of the results which it is hoped the successful administration of this law will accomplish.

1. The prevention of misrepresentation regarding the breeding or registration of any stallions standing for public service.

2. The elimination, from the breeding ranks, of all horses, the get of which are especially liable to be rendered unfit for useful service on account of hereditary unsoundness or disease.

3. The means of determining those individuals from which, on account of their superior type, conformation and breeding, may be expected most uniformly satisfactory results.

4. The proper registration in an official studbook of many individuals whose eligibility may be satisfactorily proven, although at the present time either non-registered on account of lack of appreciation of such procedure on the part of the owner, or through ignorance, recorded in an unauthorized book.

5. A general stimulation of interest in market horses and their production, and a wider dissemination of reliable information concerning the horse breeding industry.

No. 92.

AN ACT

To encourage the breeding of horses; to regulate the public service of stallions; to require the registration of stallions; and to provide for the enforcement thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That every person, firm, or company standing or travelling any stallion for breeding purposes, in this State, shall cause the name, description, and pedigree of such stallion to be enrolled by the State Livestock Sanitary Board, and procure a certificate of such enrollment from said Board, which shall thereupon be presented to and recorded by the prothonotary of the county or counties in which said stallion is used for public service.

Section 2. In order to obtain the license certificate herein provided for, the owner of such stallion shall file a certificate of soundness, signed by a duly qualified veterinarian, or, in lieu thereof, he may make oath before a notary public that, after diligent inquiry, such stallion is, to the best of his knowledge, free from hereditary, contagious, or transmissible unsoundness or disease, and shall forward this veterinarian's certificate, or his affidavit, together with the stud-book certificate of registry of the pedigree of the said stallion, and any other documents that may be necessary to define and describe his breeding and ownership, to the State Livestock Sanitary Board.

Section 3. The officers of the State Livestock Sanitary Board, whose duties it shall be to examine and pass upon the merits of each pedigree submitted, shall use as their standard for action the stud-books and signatures of the duly authorized presidents and secretaries, respectively, of the various horse pedigree registry associations, societies, or companies recognized by the United States Department of Agriculture; and shall accept as pure bred, and entitled to a license certificate as such, each stallion for which a pedigree registry certificate is furnished, bearing the signature of the president and secretary of a stud-book recognized and approved by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Section 4. Stallions afflicted with hereditary, contagious, or transmissible unsoundness or disease may be refused license by the State Livestock Sanitary Board; and when license is so refused, the said stallion shall not be used for public service for profit or gain in this State: Provided, however, That a license may be refused, under this section, only when it is certified to the Board by the State Veterinarian that the stallion in question is afflicted with an hereditary, contagious, or transmissible unsoundness or disease of such a nature, or that the abnormal condition is accompanied by such a defect of conformation, as to render it probable that the progeny of the said stallion will be especially liable to said unsoundness or disease. Blemishes and deformities due to accidents shall not be regarded as unsoundness, within the meaning of this act.

Section 5. The owner of each stallion standing for public service in this State shall post, and keep affixed during the entire breeding season, copies of the license certificate of such stallion, issued under the provisions of the next succeeding section, in a conspicuous place both within and upon the outside of the main door leading into any stable or building where the said stallion stands for public service.

Section 6. The license certificate issued for a stallion whose sire and dam are of pure breeding, and the pedigree of which is registered in the stud-book recognized by the United States Department of Agriculture, shall be in the following form:—
